ABOUT ME

I consider myself a hard-working person with the ability to achieve my goals. After completing my bachelor in sciences, I began my studies at the International University of Catalonia, where I studied business administration. After working as an insurance salesman and a chef in the kitchen of a Michelin star restaurant, which allowed me to deal with customers, I jumped into the world of programming through the Web developer course at Ironhack, where my desire and effort, have allowed me to find my passion in this world, where I want to learn and grow personally and professionally.
